BILL GIVING FARMERS PART IN U.S. COTTON POOL PASSED IN HOUSE BY 188 TO 183 AFTER STRUGGLE

PERSONAL RIGHTS SHARPLY LIMITED BY DRASTIC ORDER

Wholesale Arrests of Communist Leaders Takes Place as Nationalist Government Moves To Throttle Active Opposition.

DEATH IS PROVIDED FOR STATE CRIMES

Constitutional Articles Declaring Individual and Press Liberties Suspended by Decree.

By JOHN A. BOUMAN.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A heavy blow was struck at communism in Germany by a decree President Von Hindenburg signed tonight, placing the nation under virtual martial law "to protect the people from communist danger."

The decree was approved at a cabinet meeting at which Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio and commissioner for the Prussian ministry of interior, reported to his colleagues on the incendiary fire which damaged the reichstag last night and on the recent raid on Karl Liebknecht house, the communist headquarters in Berlin.

The emergency measures taken by the government to cope with the situation fell short of martial law only because of the desire to keep the army out of politics.

Meanwhile, communist leaders throughout Germany were placed under arrest. The arrest order affected communist members of the reichstag, but it was impossible to determine how many of them had been seized as many went into hiding.

In Hanover 140 communists were arrested, in Hamburg 150, in Unterweschnach 7, and in Dusseldorf 36. Party headquarters throughout the country were raided, and subversive literature and weapons were seized.

Forged Orders Found. Captain Goering reports that in Karl Liebknecht house the raiders found forged orders to the police and to national socialist storm troops, as well as instructions for poisoning wells and food.

The decree declaring a state of emergency contained seven clauses, the first of which rescinded until further notice articles of the constitution guaranteeing personal liberty and the right of free expression of opinion (including the press). It gave authority for searching homes and for seizing property.

The second clause empowered the government of the reich to take over executive authority in German states which fail to enforce law and order within their borders.

Clauses 3 and 4 set forth penal measures to be used in such cases, and threatened imprisonment of not less than a month and fines of 150 to 15,000 marks ($37.50 to $3,750) for practice or advocated resistance against the authorities.

Anybody inciting to acts endangering public safety is liable to not less than three months at hard labor. Another clause inflicts the death penalty (hitherto life imprisonment) for high treason, poisoning, arson, etc.

Floridan Dies Refusing To Name His Assailant

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 28. (P)—Death today sealed the lips of Fred Fulson, 53, of Miami, who died in a hospital here, refusing to disclose the identity of an assailant, who shot him in the back on a street last night. He had $2,800 in cash on his person when he was shot.

The only eye-witness to the shooting, officers said, was a 16-year-old boy. He said the assailant wore a dark overcoat and disappeared immediately after the shots were fired. Authorities said they had no clue as to the identity of the slayer and that Mrs. Fulson, after repeated questioning, refused to make a statement.

MAN IS ARRESTED IN EXTORTION PLOT AGAINST CANDLER

John Lee Butler Caught When He Gets $1,000 "Plant" at Theater; Zoo Animals Threatened.

Seeking to extort $1,000 from Asa G. Candler Jr., under threat of killing all the animals in the famous Candler zoo on Briarcliff road, John Lee Butler, 23, of 1171 Oak street, was captured by city and postal officers late Tuesday night and lodged in the city jail.

Butler was arrested when he sought to get the $1,000, which was "planted" in a seat in the West End theater, according to directions contained in a letter he wrote Sunday to Mr. Candler, officers said.

According to police, Butler wrote Mr. Candler a letter directing that the money be left in a certain seat at the theater Tuesday night. He wanted, he said in the note, to borrow it for three months for the benefit of his sweetheart who is ill. He would have willing to pay $500 interest, he said, and warned the Atlanta capitalist to "keep quiet about this."

Butler confessed the alleged blackmail scheme to police after he had been taken to the police station, officers said.

Officers said Mr. Candler turned the letter over to them immediately after receiving it Sunday. Together with postal authorities, they took the bundle of money and went to the West End theater Tuesday night to place it in the designated seat.

Shortly after the police had stationed themselves at various points about the theater, Butler came in and

Ford Secretary Found After 36-Hour Hunt

DETROIT, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ernest G. Liebhold, Henry Ford's general secretary, who suddenly dropped from sight 36 hours before, found himself tonight in a Park hotel room in Traverse City, Mich., many miles away from the home to which he started at 11 a. m. yesterday and never reached.

By telephone, he told Mr. Ford that he "just woke up," that he had no idea how far he had driven and that he was "totally exhausted."

Precedent-Breaking Appointment of Woman Completes Roosevelt's Selection of Cabinet

With the announcement Tuesday of the selection of Senator Thomas Walsh, of Montana, as attorney-general; Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina, as secretary of commerce, and Miss Frances Perkins, of New York, as secretary of labor, the cabinet lineup was officially completed. Every one of the nine men and one woman is a personal friend of the next president, chosen in an especial effort to maintain continuous harmony in his official family. The complete cabinet is

DEFINITE GAINS MADE BY CERMAK

Cessation of Oxygen Treatment and Injections Ordered by Doctors

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Mayor Anton Cermak made sufficient progress today to warrant cessation of oxygen treatment and intravenous injections of glucose.

Dr. Frederick Tice, of Chicago, one of five physicians attending the wounded executive, said late today that an oxygen room being rushed here from New York probably would not be used if further improvement was noted tonight in Cermak's condition.

The latest official bulletin on the Chicago mayor's condition said favorable progress had been noted.

"Mayor Cermak has passed a quiet, restful day," the bulletin read. "The pneumonic process seems to be lessening in extent and severity. The present outlook appears somewhat hopeful. Pulse, 124; respiration, 30; temperature, 101."

Dr. Tice said after the bulletin was

Walsh Named Attorney-General, Roper Made Head of Commerce Department, and Miss Perkins Chosen Secretary of Labor.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 28.—(P) President-elect Roosevelt broke precedent tonight with the selection for the first time of a woman for the cabinet; he named Miss Frances Perkins, New York commissioner of labor, her secretary of labor.

The next president made his cabinet complete with the announcement also of Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina, as secretary of commerce.

Earlier in the day he gave out the name of the veteran Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, as his attorney-general.

Both Senator Walsh and Mr. Roper were leading figures in the unsuccessful campaign of William G. McDougal for the democratic presidential nomination in 1924. McDougal's announcement of the switch of California's vote at the Chicago convention, assured Mr. Roosevelt's nomination.

JAPANESE FORCES TAKE TWO TOWNS

SUICHUNG, Manchuria, March 1. (Wednesday)—(AP)—Japan's 14th infantry brigade under Major General Heijiro Hattori was reported to have captured Peichangyintse, Jehol, 15 miles northwest of Shiamoshan Pass, at 9 a. m. today. The battle began at dawn.

The 11th infantry brigade under Major General Kunio Matsuda, was reported to have occupied Chienling, Jehol, early today and continued westward. (It apparently was headed for Chihfeng Pass to Jehol city.)

General Shi Wen-hui, commander of the Chinese cavalry force defending Chihfeng, communication center of Jehol province, was reported to have announced his submission to the Japanese-sponsored Manchukuo government.

JAP AIRCRAFT CARRIER SIGHTED AT CHINWANGTAO PEIPING, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Japanese aircraft carrier Hosho, which carries 26 planes, has been sighted off Chinwangtao, in the Gulf of Chilli, reliable sources said today.

Until recently the Hosho was at Port Arthur, Chinwangtao is the port of the south of Shanhaikwan, scene of fighting between the Japanese and Chinese early in January.

Chinese official dispatches said the Chinese army still held the pass at Paishihsuimeng in southern Jehol, about 50 miles north of the Great Wall, which Japanese forces operating from Suichung have been trying to force in order to turn the Chinese right flank. Japanese press reports were that the pass had been carried by the invaders.

The Chinese command sent back word that waves of Japanese infantrymen charged up the pass only to

ADAMS MEN TELL OF MORE 'GIFTS'

Andy R. King Says He Gave $200 and Later Got Job at $150 Monthly.

Additional accounts of contributions to the campaign expenses of G. C. Adams, commissioner of agriculture, by employees of his department, Tuesday were given a legislative committee which is investigating rumors of job selling in the department.

Andy R. King, former oil company representative in the department, said he gave $200 to J. W. Rountree, manager of Adams' campaign, after Rountree had previously given him $100 for expense money to work for Adams' election.

Tom Tennent, an employee of the chemistry division, said he gave $25 to Rountree three days after he was told that he would be retained in the department.

Tennent quoted Rountree as saying: "You have a job. There are rumors going around that we are selling jobs, but if it's your thought that we are selling jobs, we don't want

La Boulaye To Replace Ambassador Claudel

PARIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Andre Lefebvre de La Boulaye, personal secretary of President-elect Roosevelt, will be named ambassador to Washington to succeed Paul Claudel, it was learned from semi-official quarters today.

M. La Boulaye was selected, these sources said, especially to carry on negotiations for a new debt agreement with the United States.

An official announcement is expected to be made after the Roosevelt inauguration on Saturday.

M. La Boulaye made the acquaintance of Mr. Roosevelt as first secretary of the embassy at Washington during the Wilson administration, when the president-elect was assistant of the navy.

They have maintained their friendship since then.

Claudel has been in Washington since March 28, 1927, and became dean of Washington diplomats a few weeks ago upon the departure of Noble Glavin, De Martino, Italian ambassador, who had been in Washington for seven years.

Auto Hits Toby Cook; Boy Slightly Injured

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Feb. 28.—(AP)—An automobile knocked Toby Cook over a fence and injured him slightly near here today but the seven-year-old boy continued his pony ride from Chula, Ga., to Washington for the inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt.

He proceeded without one of the four ponies he was riding in relays over the 800-mile route. The automobile injured it so badly that it was mercifully killed.

The accident happened only 35 miles from Washington and despite it, Toby expected to reach the capital some time tonight. Officers said the motorists gave Toby's father their car, automobile in settlement of the damages and no arrests were made.

17 PCT. DIVERSION OF HIGHWAY FUNDS BEATEN BY HOUSE

Proposal Gains Floor as Amendment to Appropriations Bill; Progress Is Made on Finances.

By L. A. FARRELL.
A proposal to divert 17 per cent of the revenue of the state highway department to meet past-due appropriations to state departments and agencies was defeated by the house in a vote of 183 to 188 Tuesday afternoon. The vote was 77 to 77.

The diversion proposal, already rejected by the committee on public highways, gained the floor as an amendment to the appropriations bill which was rushed forward in order to delay action on a new conference committee asked by the senate on the highway bill on which three conference groups already have failed to agree.

The diversion fight, which took most of the house's afternoon session, was a new fight for the amendment offered as a rider to the appropriations measure which already provides that 3 per cent of the highway department's revenue be placed in the general treasury for general purposes.

Immediately after defeat of the proposal, division advocates announced the proposal of a new fight for that they would make the minority report on the straight diversion bill comes from the highways committee. After sidetracking the license tag

Public Works, Debt Solution Urged by Smith To Save U. S.

By DON J. KIRKLEY.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(P)—In his own homely phrases Alfred E. Smith, democracy's 1928 presidential candidate, today sketched before the senate finance committee a broad program for the improvement of economic conditions.

At ease and puffing on his perpetual cigar, Smith mixed with bursts of smoke proposals for sweeping expansion of public works to aid the jobless, recognition of Russia, settlement of war debts on the basis of trade increases, tariff revision and consolidation of transportation agencies into a unified system.

For Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who goes into the White House at which he aimed five years ago and whom he opposed at the democratic convention last June, Smith advocated broad powers to reorganize the government and observed that he did not believe this would make the executive a dictator.

"I'm not in sympathy with all this talk about dictators, monarchs and kings when you give the president power to run the government as a private undertaking," Smith explained as the crowded committee room listened attentively to his comment.

The hearings were closed today, but

HOOVER ATTITUDE IS UNDETERMINED

30 Per Cent Reductions Would Give Grower Option on Staple With R. F. C. To Provide Funds.

By WILLIAM L. BEALE.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(P)—A novel scheme for raising cotton prices by offering shares in a huge government pool to production-slashing southern farmers today survived a scathing republican attack to win house approval by a scant five votes.

The bill returns to the senate where its sponsor, Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, plans to ask acceptance of the house amendments, to get the measure to the White House before Saturday.

There is no record of Hoover's reaction to the cotton plan. But in reaching President Hoover the cotton plan promised to join the bankrupt bill in traveling farther than any other important farm relief effort of the "damascus" congress. Senator George, of Georgia, was active with Smith in securing action on the pool plan.

"It is a bill for the relief of the banks," contended Republican Leader, Smith, insisting that it would cost the government $27,500,000 to retire bank loans on 1,500,000 bales of government-financed cotton held by the American Cotton Co-operative Association.

Chairman Jones, of the agriculture committee, contended the farm board was obligated to pay the money anyway, unless cotton prices appreciate, and Rankin, democrat, Alabama, said the bill presented "the last chance to do anything for the cotton farmer, for he's already beginning to plant."

Shifts Carry Plan. The final vote was 188 to 183. The necessary majority was won as three democrats—Rankin and Underwood, of Ohio, and Huddleston, of Alabama, changed their votes from no to yes just before Speaker Garner announced the result.

The bill was contested stubbornly all the way. First Snell raised a parliamentary point of order that the bill had not been read and properly passed by the agriculture committee. Overruled by Garner, he forced a ballot on taking up the measure. It was adopted, 193 to 179.

Snell said the bill was a stabilization measure, supported by northern spinners who wanted prices stabilized, and by banks.

"This is a banker's bill and spinner's bill more than it is a grower's bill," Snell said.

McGuire, republican, Kansas, said

High School Girl Wins Trip To Roosevelt Inauguration

Miss Erma Lucille Llorens, a 16-year-old junior in the Girls' High school, won first prize in The Constitution's jigsaw puzzle contest, and with her mother will receive a free trip to Washington to see Franklin D. Roosevelt inaugurated as president of the United States.

Her jigsaw creation was the best of several hundred received, according to a decision of the judges reached late Tuesday. Miss Llorens and her mother will leave Thursday for Washington, all their expenses to be paid by The Constitution.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Llorens, of 267 Little street. S. E. Miss Llorens was naturally overjoyed at her success.

"I worked 20 hours piecing the puzzle bits together," she said. "In fact I continued steadily at it until 3 o'clock Tuesday morning."

"Naturally I am very much pleased over my success, and can hardly find words to express my appreciation of the co-operation of The Constitution and the merchants which made the contest possible."

Miss Llorens won second prize recently in another jigsaw contest. Her winning design showed Washington's inauguration perfectly pieced together from the puzzle, and colored by hand.

SAFEGUARD URGED FOR U.S. INVESTORS

Stock Exchange Chief Calls for Regulations To Protect Public.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—(P)—Every possible means must be adopted to safeguard the vast number of investors who furnish capital to industry, in the opinion of Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, in order that the return to normal conditions can be assured.

Speaking before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce here today, Mr. Whitney deplored the "ephemeral prophets" of bygone "boom" days, urged better corporation reports, stricter accounting practices and uniform laws relating to the issuance of securities and the formation of new corporations.

He pointed out that "we shall need all of our wisdom and all of our courage" in solving the existing economic problems.

"In spite of present discouragements," he said, "we must remember that the depression has not paralyzed scientific progress nor halted invention. New products and new services are at this very moment awaiting the return of economic equilibrium and in new flow of investment funds into the productive effort of men's brains and hands."

Following the war, Mr. Whitney said, people began to listen to anyone who promised prosperity.

"The appearance of success," he said, "was enough to establish leadership and to attract large numbers of followers. The entire civilized world has seen the rise and fall of these ephemeral prophets. Stines of Germany, Ostrich in France, Hatry in England, Lowenstein in Belgium and England, Kreuger in Sweden and elsewhere throughout the world, and others in this country had their day."

"It now develops," he declared, "that in almost every case the apparent success of these men lay not in the fact that they were establishing sound enterprises but in that they were reporting huge profits which, in some instances, were entirely fictitious and in others were unrealized profits existing only on paper."

"These examples of false leadership illustrate the tendencies of that period. In our haste to achieve wealth, in our desire to expand business too rapidly, we closed our minds to the necessity of making progress slowly and of building sound foundations. Now, we have awakened to the grave reality of an impoverished world."

"Blue sky laws," Mr. Whitney believed, are not a substitute for "sound uniform laws governing incorporation."

U. S. Departments

'Rackets'--M'Cormick

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 28.—(P)—Colonel Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, in a speech tonight declared the departments of commerce, agriculture and the interior "are not much better than rackets."

The Chicago publisher attacked high federal taxes, and observed that "we have reached the extraordinary situation where the ownership of property has become a liability, not an asset."

McCormick said the collapse of the stock market was mainly due to stocks forced upon the market by "government exactions."

"For more than a year I have made this statement, and I will continue to proclaim it," Colonel McCormick said. "There is not a cabinet officer, there is not a member of congress, who dares to try to demonstrate that one-half of the money appropriated for any department of government is used for the purpose designated."

Maryland Guardsmen Hunt Negro Gunman

CENTREVILLE, Md., Feb. 28.—(P)—Governor Albert C. Ritchie tonight ordered company K, Centreville's unit of the Maryland national guard to search for a heavily armed negro, who wounded one member of a posse late today and kept up an exchange of shots until dark with other searchers.

The posse of 100 men including 25 volunteered national guardsmen early tonight believed they had the negro, Harry Branch, in a 25-acre swamp thick with trees.

The negro had been sought since Sunday for shooting and critically wounding Lillian Giles, described as his common law wife, at a dance hall.

DRIVER'S LICENSE WAR IS RENEWED

Death of Chief Terrell Causes Leaders To Consider Remedy.

While funeral plans for Chief John Terrell, of the Atlanta fire department, were being made Tuesday, Councilman Raymond Curtis, chairman of the board of firemasters and a member of council's police committee, prepared to ask council Monday for authority to force all drivers of vehicles to pass driving examinations and to procure driver's licenses.

Terrell died Monday as a result of an accident when answering a false alarm Sunday. His machine was rammed by one driven by Garfield Towers, negro.

Councilman R. H. Cobb, of the first ward, said he will propose a synchronized system to be used in connection with downtown lights which would automatically make all traffic signals in the section amber and sound bells as fire trucks pass through the congested area.

Towers Tuesday afternoon was bound over on charges of murder and held without bond pending an investigation by Fulton county grand jury. Recorder A. W. Callaway said he did not wish to take up the case of reckless driving and sent it to Fulton prosecutors.

Curtis contended that a driver's license would force those unable to safely and properly operate machines to learn to drive. He also claimed that depleted city revenue could be boosted through a licensing system.

Cobb explained that his plan of turning all signal lamps amber through fire department manipulation of signals would stop traffic and enable fire apparatus to reach the scene of a fire with greater facility.

Funeral services for Chief Terrell will probably be held Thursday with arrangements to be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son. Plans will be completed today, having been held in abeyance pending the arrival of relatives from distant cities.

CONCERN IS FELT FOR AMERICANS IN NORTH CHINA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(P)—The safety of 3,000 Americans in the Peiping and Tientsin area is the cause of much concern to state department officials as Japanese and Manchukuo forces sweep southward through Jehol toward north China. Civilians in China never evacuate when orders are given by diplomatic and consular officials. This is true of Europeans as well as Americans who have been through so many revolutions and civil wars that they generally refuse to leave their homes.

The 1,300 marines and soldiers the United States has at Peiping and Tientsin could not be evacuated except by agreement with the Japanese, Italians, British and French, who also have small defense forces in the two cities.

Military observers say American lives would be menaced should Chinese mobs attack the Japanese colonies in those cities because of the possibility that the uprisings might develop into a general anti-foreign movement similar to the Boxer uprising in 1900.

BERN INVESTIGATION OFFICIALLY IS CLOSED

Widenham, foreman of the county grand jury; O. G. Lawton, member of the grand jury; and Robert Stewart, chief deputy district attorney.

COMMITTEE BARS NEW SEWER AREA

Apartment Owners, Hotel Men, Citizens Object to Outlet Charges.

Council's sewer committee Tuesday afternoon opposed the proposed establishment of a sewer district to include Atlanta "at this time," and will ask council Monday to so inform the Georgia assembly.

Committee action was taken following a protest by hotel operators, apartment house owners and citizens, who objected to provisions empowering the commission of the district to impose a charge up to 20 cents for each sewer outlet.

It was taken despite the objection of several members of the sewer committee, and a warning by Assistant Chief of Construction William A. Hunsell, in charge of sewers, that 77 suits are now pending against the city seeking relief from nuisances created because of turning of millions of gallons of untreated sewage each day into streams surrounding Atlanta.

Mayor James L. Key Tuesday sought supervision of sewage disposal tests being made here by Parsons, Klapp, Brickerhoff & Douglas, New York firm, by Georgia Tech and the Atlanta engineering council. He directed letters to Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, and S. R. Young, president of the council, urging close inspection of the tests.

The mayor told both that something must be done to relieve conditions caused by Atlanta's and adjacent territory's sewage, and favored passage of the proposed legislative enactment, which would create a sewer district and which the sewer committee of council disapproved Tuesday afternoon.

The degree of success of the chemical disposal of sewage, which the tests are designed to show, and its economy are sought from an engineering viewpoint by Key in his letters to Brittain and Young.

SCHOOL GIRL WINS TRIP TO INAUGURAL

It was beautifully mounted on cardboard. Above it she pasted portraits of Washington, Roosevelt and Lincoln, and below, pictures of Martha and George Washington and Mount Vernon.

Many striking designs were submitted, and the judges awarded favorable mention to Miss Mary Manning of Marietta, and Miss Lois Hutchins, Miss Jim Mercer, Thomas A. Kemp Jr. and Clarence B. Farrar, of Atlanta.

The following judges rendered the decision: Mrs. Sarah Barnes, advertising manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; W. R. Walder, of Jacobs pharmacy, and F. W. Hasse, of the King Hardware Company.

ADAMS MEN TELL OF MORE "GIFTS" AT STATE PROBE

There is a campaign deficit at this time, they think it is only fair that those who are to enjoy the benefits of the campaign should help pay the costs.

The witness said that Commissioner Adams once advised him that he could not "offer any encouragement" to him regarding his application for continuance in the department, as the commissioner had to take care of his friends.

Questioned About Vote.

"You didn't even vote for Mr. Adams, did you?" asked Representative Strickland, one of the committee members.

"I don't care to answer that question unless I am forced to," said Tenney, and the question was not pressed. King said the $100 he got from Rountree was given him to pay expenses of work out in the state in behalf of Adams.

King said he was working to elect M. Bullard comptroller general and told Rountree he also would work for Adams for part of that he (King) later gave $200 to the Adams campaign fund.

"You gave that with the understanding that you were to get a job at $200 per month under Mr. Adams, did you not?" asked Senator J. T. Sisk, chairman of the committee.

The witness said he did not purchase the job, but that his understanding was that the job would pay $200 per month. He said his pay salary was $150 per month.

Mrs. McIntyre Testifies.

Mrs. R. F. McIntyre, who was secretary to Rountree as director of the bureau of markets, said she worked without pay in the Adams headquarters from August 15 to December 31 with the hope of getting a job in event Adams won.

Rountree was discharged by Adams recently as market bureau director after testifying before the committee. Rountree said his activities as campaign manager were with the knowledge and consent of Adams, and for Adams' benefit.

Mrs. McIntyre said she investigated Adams before deciding to support him and believed he was the "highest class man in the race."

"I always investigate thoroughly any candidate before I vote for him," said Mrs. McIntyre. "I did this in this case."

Sensor Sisk interrupted to ask: "Let's not make a speech." Occasionally Mrs. McIntyre pounded her hand on the judge's bench as the supreme court room as she emphasized a point.

Commissioner Adams was in the courtroom during the hearing but did not testify.

After the committee adjourned its next hearing until Thursday afternoon, Chairman Sisk said Mr. Adams had "asked for more time."

Both said they made no contribution to Adams.

King was asked by Representative Strickland:

"What inspired your contribution?" "I was for him."

"Were you for Mr. Talmadge?" "When?"

"In his last campaign."

"How much did you give to Mr. Talmadge's campaign?"

"Nothing."

In Legislative Halls

By BEN COOPER.

Penitentiary committeemen of the house and senate will leave Friday afternoon to visit the state prison farm in Tattnall county. The committeemen will be entertained at Reidsville Saturday with a fish dinner.

A public hearing on the senate bill calling for a convention to pass on the proposal to repeal the eighteenth amendment will be held at 7 o'clock next Tuesday night by the senate committee on privileges and elections. The bill was introduced Tuesday by Senators Gordon Knox, of Hazlehurst, and John Lewis, of Marietta. It provides for election of 21 delegates from the state at large.

The house bill calling for diversion of funds from the common schools, board of regents to pay the unpaid and overdue pensions of Confederate veterans will be reported unfavorably by the senate finance committee. Senator W. M. Lester, of Augusta, will file a minority report favoring the bill, he said.

The bill would require payment into the pension fund of all of the money to be received from the sale on April 1 of a $540,000 W. & A. railroad rental warrant to the highway department. The money, under the present law, would be prorated to the pensioners, schools, regents and heard of control.

The finance committee approved the house bill proposing a constitutional amendment to permit classification of intangibles for taxation. It was explained that a similar bill was defeated in the recent election, but that the new bill corrects objections of the towns and cities to the old bill.

Motor vehicles committeemen of the house Tuesday approved a senate bill prohibiting automobiles from passing school buses while the buses are taking on or discharging passengers.

The senate Tuesday voted to remain in session until 2 o'clock this afternoon and to limit to 10 minutes each senator on his bill to five minutes for general discussions.

Governor Eugene Talmadge vetoed a Coffee county local bill Tuesday. The bill provided that the county tax commissioner, created at the last session of the assembly, should receive all of the fees collected by the tax receiver and tax collector. Under the present law the commissioner receives 60 per cent of the fees. The governor said he felt that the 60 per cent was enough for the commissioner to carry on the work of his office.

The house, considering the general appropriations bill as the committee of the whole, Tuesday approved an appropriation of $200,000 annually for 1934 and 1935 to continue experiments at the paper plant in Savannah.

Two members, Johnson, of Bartow, and Johnston, of Jasper, proposed an amendment to reduce the appropriation to $150,000 annually, but it was defeated by a vote of 32 for and 85 against. Johnson, of Bartow, said he did not believe in taking money out of the taxpayers' pockets unless "it is absolutely necessary, and while that work at the Savannah plant is good, I don't believe we should take all that money out of the taxpayers' pockets."

Mundy, of Polk, chairman of the house appropriations committee, supported the committee's recommendation of $200,000 for the plant, saying that it is to the best interest of Georgia that the work be continued. He told the house that the committee had been informed the work could not continue on less than $200,000 annually.

The house committee on highways Tuesday night to return a favorable report of house bill No. 22, introduced by Representative Myrick, of Savannah, providing for regulation of motor vehicles that are common carriers and also private contract carriers.

Chairman Scott, of the committee, announced that a subcommittee had investigated the bill and was ready to report. The subcommittee favored passage of the measure by unanimous vote. Representative Myrick was the only person who discussed the measure. He explained that it is designed to correct certain parts of the bill which were found to be unconstitutional by the supreme court when they were included in the act which was passed at the 1931 session of the legislature.

"It is a long bill but it makes few changes in the present law governing the regulation of common motor carriers," Mr. Myrick said. "It was drawn in the light of court decisions handed down since the enactment of the law in 1931."

The house made speedy progress on the appropriations measure with the prospect that it would be completed late today. The bill was taken up after the house had overwhelmingly voted down an effort to table it, the tabling effort being made in an attempt to force an extra session which would have been made necessary by failure of the legislature to adopt an appropriations measure at the current session.

Interest in the items in the appropriations bill approved during the day centered about the $100,000 budgeted for the department of agriculture. This plan was approved by the whole house.

D. Rivers led the fight on diversion, addressing the committee as a member as Representative Roy V. Harris, of Richmond county, presided over the committee of the whole.

The diversion proposal was sponsored by Representatives Park and DeFore, of Bibb county; Rawlins, of Telfair county; Franklin, of Lowndes county; and Lanier, of Richmond county.

Judge Park and Representative John Parker, of Colquitt county, in whose county W. C. Verren, of Moultrie, is the highest highway board resident, led the fight for adoption of the amendment.

Park Urges Adoption.

"There has been a plan advocated to pay off the past due debts of our state departments and institutions," Judge Park said in advocating the measure. "We do not think that it is right for the legislature to divert money to go on paying roads and the state debt in debt, the debts long past due."

Representative Parker said he advocated the diversion proposal because he felt that there would be no other plan advanced to pay the debts.

Representative Hendricks, of Muscogee county, joined the diversion advocates. He asserted that he did not believe the schools should be neglected.

Speaker Pro Tem Ellis Arnall, of Coweta county, also advocated passage of the plan, pointing out that the amendment would yield between $1,175,000 and $1,250,000 a year toward paying off the debts. The contract for past due appropriations of the state's agencies amount to slightly more than $4,000,000. Under the terms of a bill approved Monday by the house, $600,000 of this, the amount due Confederate pensioners, will be paid April 1 through disbursement of the W. & A. railroad and $800,000 from the general treasury.

In addition to Speaker Rivers, Representatives Stock of Twiggs; Cartledge, of Richmond; Flynt, of Spalding; Alexander and Myrick, of Chatam; Mundy, of Polk; Vaughn, of Rockdale; Duncan, of Houston, and Allen, of Jackson, spoke against the diversion proposal.

Tabling Voted Down.

The movement to table the appropriation bill was opposed by Representative Lanier, of Richmond county, but it was voted down when Chairman Mundy, of the appropriations committee, announced that he would call the bill up every day for the remainder of the session until he obtained action on it.

The house then took up the bill, item by item, beginning with the department of agriculture.

Proposals to give the department sums ranging from $50,000 to $225,000 were all voted down and the house approved the committee recommendation of $100,000. The budget bureau, headed by Governor Talmadge, had recommended $250,000 yearly, including the veterinary department funds. The house gave the veterinary department $50,000 in a separate appropriation.

Committee recommendations were followed except in one major instance—the house cut the department of entomology to $40,000 as suggested by the budget bureau. The committee had raised that to $50,000, which was $10,000 less than the department actually received in 1932.

The house defeated an attempt of Thompson, of Muscogee, and others to make the committee recommend appropriation $4,000,000 instead of $4,500,000.

Mundy warned the representatives that if they passed the bill decreasing materially the recommendations of the budget bureau "you must make up your mind to vote for a sales tax." He said some means of raising revenue must be provided to meet an increased budget should one be passed.

The committee of the whole house cut the comptroller general to $100,000 from the budget bureau recommendation of $150,000, and approved the budget bureau recommendation of $50,000, with the provision that $5,000 go to improve state property at Indian Springs. The committee recommendation of $20,000 for expenses of the governor's office was approved. It was $5,000 less than the governor requested. The governor's emergency fund was

The house took up the appropriation bill after Representative Paul Lindsay, of DeKalb county, leader of the anti-administration forces, fought in vain to have the house vote on a new tag conference committee, this time to give instructions to the committee.

Under the rules of the house the appropriations bill has the right of way over all other measures if the chairman of the reporting committee insists that the bill be taken up. Chairman Mundy said he felt that it action on the appropriations bill was delayed at all there was a grave possibility that the house and the senate would not have enough time to act on it before adjournment on March 19.

Lindsay announced at the close of Tuesday's session that he would make a new effort to get an instructed tag committee today. It is expected that if a conference committee is instructed the instructions will be to accept the figures offered by the senate. The senate's tag bill fixes the tag price range at from $5.63 to $15 as compared with the $3 to $15 price range fixed in the house bill.

While the Georgia legislature was delaying action on its bill, the Tennessee house of representatives in session at Nashville approved a bill which would cut the prices of tags in that state 50 per cent.

Senate Debate—Tags.

Debate on the automobile tag price reduction bill was engaged in by the senate under the head of remarks on personal privilege, and was climaxed by a vote adopting the conference committee's report of a disagreement. The senate, on motion by Dr. Charles Howard, of Cassia, authorized President Hamilton McWhorter to appoint another conference committee.

The tag discussion started with the report by Senator Hugh A. Carothers, of Winder, that the conferees had been unable to agree. "We gave, but the house conferees would not come to us," Carothers said. He denied that any "block" existed in the senate, and said that "the breach is just as far as it has ever been."

Sensor W. H. Lovett, of Wrightsville, also a conferee, said that "we did our best to compromise." Senator J. T. Colson, of Brunswick, the third senate conferee, told the senate that "it has been said that we worship a golden calf, and I want to say that in this emergency the senate is justified in worshipping a golden calf."

Debate brought before the senate notice of the fact that John T. Whitely, of LaGrange, and Daniel D. Troup county, have circulated a petition in the interests of the $3 tag. Following a speech by Senator John M. Hutcheson, of Lafayette, who said that "no $3 tag has been presented to the legislature in compliance with the democratic platform," Senator J. Render Terrell, of LaGrange, defended the "right of the people of Troup county to circulate and sign petitions."

The senate passed a bill providing that where a railroad corporation has heretofore leased its property for a long term of years to another corporation and this lease has heretofore or hereafter terminated and the lessor is not a going concern, it would be authorized to sell or lease its property, rights and franchises to another railroad corporation. Senator George Fezter, of Guyton, said that the bill affects only one railroad corporation, "the Central railroad."

The Hutcheson-Turner bill exempting from taxation the live stock and implements necessary for operation of a two-horse farm. The senate also passed the bill of Morris, 38th, providing for disposition of funds tendered or awarded as the result of condemnation of private property for public purposes. The bill creating a judicial commission, offered by Senator J. R. Pottle, of Albany, was lost when the senate voted 26 to 18 in favor of the bill, the measure failing to receive the requisite constitutional majority.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 1, 1933.

A WISE OLD MAN.

The announcement of an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition both to China and Japan, accompanied by the statement that under no circumstances will Great Britain allow herself to be drawn into the conflict between these two oriental nations, emphasizes the adroitness and far-sightedness of British diplomacy.

John Bull—always the wise old man of diplomacy—thus gives another example of safety and sanity in the handling of international affairs.

Last year, when all sorts of comment and messages on Japan's course were emanating from Washington, a wise and significant silence was maintained in London. Already the results are evident in an increase of cordiality between Japan and Great Britain, while American merchants are fast losing business to their competitors in Canada.

Although disapproving of Japan's course in Manchuria, the British diplomats have not failed to realize that any partiality to China in the shipment of war materials would create a situation filled with international pitfalls.

Japan, as a matter of self-protection, would be almost certain to attack ships carrying arms and ammunition to its enemy. The sinking of a British ship would mean the immediate involvement of Great Britain and the consequence might be war.

Direct warning of this danger comes from Tokyo in the statement of a spokesman for the Japanese government that there is little danger of friction between the two nations if the embargo is impartially applied to both China and Japan, but that "if an embargo is applied to Japan alone, the seizure of arms shipments to China will have to be considered."

The United States would have been better off had we taken our cue from British diplomacy last year.

Fortunately for the country, indications are that under Senator Hull, the incoming secretary of state, the diplomatic policies of the United States will be so shaped as to avoid, as do those of Great Britain, the pitfalls ever present when one country meddles, without good reason, into the affairs of another.

AN UNNECESSARY LOSS.

The tragic death of Fire Chief Terrell emphasizes the need for laws which will remove the present constant threat on our public highways from reckless, drunken or incapable drivers.

The driver, whose failure to observe the traffic regulation giving right of way to fire engines, did not even own the car he was driving. He was, without license or responsibility, "trying it out" by dashing at a high rate of speed through the streets of the city.

The failure of the state to provide laws requiring demonstration of driving ability before permission to operate an automobile on a public highway is granted, is responsible for the loss to Atlanta of an efficient and valuable department head.

The experience of other states where drivers' license laws have been enacted clearly demonstrates the extent to which they offer protection to those who use the highways in a legal way. Annual tolls in deaths, injuries and property damage in those states have been reduced from 30 to 50 per cent.

It is to be hoped that the tragic, and unnecessary, death of Fire Chief Terrell will awaken the members of the general assembly to their responsibility to check the reign of lawless driving on the public thoroughfares of Georgia by enacting the drivers' license bill now before them.

From 80 to 90 per cent of auto accidents are caused by reckless or mentally or physically defective drivers. A law requiring that every driver be examined before being given the right to operate a car would eliminate the greater part of the drivers who are a constant threat to the users of the streets and highways, and the authority for the courts to suspend or revoke licenses would put teeth into the enforcement of all traffic regulations.

RAILROADS "WAKING UP."

The permission asked of the interstate commerce commission by the Louisville & Nashville railroad to make reductions in its passenger fares to two cents a mile in coaches and three cents in Pullman's generally the way for the rail lines generally to successfully compete with other types of transportation.

It is inevitable that fare reductions will be instituted by the railroads of the country and, now that the ice has been broken by the L. & N., the other large systems no doubt, will follow suit.

President Whiteford Cole, of the L. & N., and President J. B. Hill, of the N. C. & St. L., one of its subsidiaries, have taken the position for several months that the most direct and advisable way to meet bus competition is through passenger fare reduction.

Of the soundness of this position there can be no question. A traveler going from one point to another, in most cases, will not use the railroads if, as is now the case, the fare by bus is materially cheaper. With an approximate equality between bus and rail line fares the situation would be reversed.

It is a hopeful sign that the rail-way executives of the country are gradually coming to a realization of the necessity for lower passenger fares if they are to reclaim at least a part of the business they have lost to motorized competition.

The preference of the traveling public for the rail lines is evidenced by the patronage attracted by the week-end and excursion rates offered by the railroads of the country. It stands to reason that an equal preference will be shown day in and day out if these lower rates are made applicable at all times and to all destinations.

A further illustration of the extent to which the railroads are awakening to the fact that intensive, modern methods must be used in meeting the competition of the highways, the air and the water courses, is to be found in the store-drum pick-up and delivery systems adopted by the L. & N. and other systems.

It is unreasonable to expect that a merchant will send his shipments to freight depots when motor trucks will call at his door and deliver his goods at the place of business of the purchaser. Where, however, the same service is extended by the railroads, the average shipper would prefer the greater safety and certainty of transportation offered.

The application of the Louisville & Nashville should, and no doubt will, be granted without delay by the interstate commerce commission, and its example should be followed up by the other rail systems of the country.

The railroads are at last "waking up"—and none too soon.

Now you can tell a man by the company he keeps alive.

Fortunately, failure to balance the budget scares us less each time it happens.

Recent newspaper comment seems to indicate that the lower house isn't.

Our puzzle fads never affect Europe. Over there they have enough mental exercise remembering the cabinets.

Science tells us how many germs develop in a test tube, but what we want is a report on the handkerchief pocket.

Still, there can't be much danger in trusting Roosevelt with powers that congress has long possessed without disaster.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Saying It With Rice.

A Japanese patriot of Kyoto intends to send one grain of rice to every soldier of his country's sixteenth division, operating in Manchuria and China. This means 30,000 grains of rice. He does not intend this as a sort of iron ration to be carried forward in the event of an attack. No, on each grain he is going to write "the five Japanese letters, or characters meaning loyalty, courtesy, chivalry, faithfulness and sincerity," the five traditional Japanese national virtues, he is told.

The trouble with all that sort of martial virtue is that they are supposed to be carried forward in the event of an attack. No, on each grain he is going to write "the five Japanese letters, or characters meaning loyalty, courtesy, chivalry, faithfulness and sincerity," the five traditional Japanese national virtues, he is told.

The London papers which report this extraordinary event are wondering if they, too, are going to be swamped one of these days with grains of rice, as they were swamped a few weeks back with Japanese post cards written by schoolboys and schoolgirls. These children were trying to justify in their own way, but no doubt egged on by the authorities, the performance of Japan in Manchuria and China. The post card propaganda having failed, the Manchurian Government remarks that it is all set to receive the rice grains, but it is afraid that the propaganda will run the risk of turning up in pudding form in some quarters.

Italian Fascist Prayer.

O God, Thou who lightest every flame and strengthenest every heart, renew each day my devotion for Italy.

Make me ever more worthy of our dead, that they themselves, who were most strong, may answer "present" to me.

Feed my flock (of fascist doctrine) upon Thy wisdom and my rifle upon Thy will.

Sharpen my vision and make strong my foot upon the passes sacred to the country; upon the roads, upon the coasts, in the forests and upon the high shores (northern Africa), which one was Rome's.

When the future soldier marches beside me in the ranks let me feel his faithful heart.

When the pennons and the banners are passing, let each man bear upon his face the look of his country; that country which we shall make yet greater, carrying each his stone to the mason's shed.

O, Lord, make Thy cross the emblem which precedes the "labarum" of my legion.

Italy is ever safe in the Duce and in the hour of our beautiful death.

So be it.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

THE GERMS WE CARRY AROUND ARE TAME.

Long years ago, gathered from the attitudes of the old-timers, there was complete accord in the profession in reference to colds. All good doctors believed that exposure to cold or chilling was the cause of colds, influenza, pneumonia, grip, diphtheria, catarrh or what had you. Then some radical freak, nut, faddist or cheap sensation monger, came along and said that the germs were the cause of colds, influenza, pneumonia, grip, diphtheria, catarrh or what had you. This wild idea seemed to grow as knowledge of bacteriology and pathology increased, until eventually the profession accepted the theory that such illnesses are of infectious character, that is, they are caused by the invasion of the system by germs.

With the general acceptance of this theory it became necessary to dispose of the original assumption that cold or chilling was the essential cause of the diseases mentioned. So we physicians, always resourceful, began to explain to the dumb laity that the exposure to cold or wet or the chilling made the tissues more vulnerable and then the germs happened in and attacked.

This amended theory served pretty well for a while. Then some more radicals, nuts, wild theorists, cheap publicity seekers or something, came along and said that the germs were always at hand to hop in and attack when the poor victim happens to get wet or chilled.

So it became necessary to amend the amendment by just suggesting that everybody goes with a complete assortment of all the more popular germs in his nose or throat at all times, and that the disease is brought on by the fact that it is necessary to bring about the bacterial invasion or infection.

This amended amendment is still doing service for many of our comic health columnists and old fossil medical authorities. But there is just one little flaw in it which I beg to point out. The suggestion has scientific support and is just one of those funny notions.

Excepting well recognized "carrier" states, such as diphtheria carriers, we have no evidence and no reason to imagine that anybody carries in his nose or throat the germs of any known disease at any time, unless he is ill with, coming down with, convalescing from or a "carrier" of the disease in question.

On the other hand, everybody knows or should know that in the case of a known carrier of diphtheria, the carrier himself is immune to the disease.

I think it is fair and uncontroversial conclusion that medical science does not recognize or acknowledge any such universal and general germ carrying as eminent old fogies in the health and medical world would have the public imagine.

Oh, we have plenty of germs microbes, bacteria, in the mouth, nose and throat, but these are tame and harmless, at least to ourselves, even if they may sometimes be capable of causing trouble when passed over to other persons.

Crookedness is No Less Crooked Because the Law Permits It

By Robert Quillen

In ordinary times, Big Business makes a great deal of money. In some instances it makes enough to pay its little stockholders an annual dividend of 100 per cent.

It doesn't pay such dividends, of course, for it has discovered devious ways, all within the law, to conceal a profit and divide it among the "insiders."

One of these devices is called a holding company. And this, in miniature, is one of its pet methods of milking the cow. Two men build a factory to make brass buttons. It costs them $1,000. Then they incorporate the business, buy some pretty stock certificates, and sell $25,000 worth of stock to the gullible public. And of course they award themselves an equal amount of stock as pay for their factory and their cleverness.

Here, then, is a $1,000 factory that must earn dividends for $50,000 of capital stock. And the factory makes good.

The business turns out to be a gold mine. Though the two organizers pay themselves fat salaries and keep seven relatives on the pay roll, the first year shows a profit of $50,000—enough to pay a dividend of 100 per cent.

Since the two men own half of the stock, they could declare the dividend and pocket $25,000 of profit—but, alas! the other $25,000 must be distributed among the little stockholders. And that would be ridiculous.

But at the end of three fat years, with $150,000 of undivided profits in the treasury, our heroes are unable to bear the strain any longer. They organize a holding company named Easy Money, Inc., and this time they keep all of the stock.

Then as sole owners of the holding company, they buy a factory site, for which they pay $1,000, and their holding company sells it to their brass button company for $150,000.

That cleans out the original company's treasury and prevents the sad business of wasting dividends on little stockholders. For their half interest in the $150,000 of accumulated profits the little fellows now have a half interest in a $1,000 factory site.

That, plus technical details and red tape, is the way the fittest survive. The business of the ordinary holding company is to cover tracks, milk a parent company, or do something the parent company's charter will not permit it to do.

In America they are called prominent citizens and urged to address luncheon clubs.

SECURITY INVESTIGATION TO BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—

For at least another year the senate banking committee will keep the activities of banks and it was indicated today that several other securities affiliates of big banks are to come within the committee's study.

In the midst of the committee's investigation of the activities of the National City Company, the securities affiliate of the National City bank, the senate adopted a resolution providing that the investigation be continued until the end of the first session of the next congress.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, told Ferdinand Pecora, the committee's chief counsel, today that he had some information regarding the Chase Securities Corporation that he desired to give Pecora. The corporation is the investment affiliate of the Chase National bank.

Arnold M. Byrnes, a former vice president of the National City Company, gave the committee information about South American loans today. Officials of the National City bank's affiliate, the National City Company, gave the committee information about South American loans today. LANSBURG URGES EMBARGO ON JAPANESE ONLY LONDON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—George Lansbury, leader of the labor party, urged today that Great Britain and the United States act together in an embargo on Japanese ships effective against Japan alone.

Mr. Lansbury thought that such an embargo should be extended to cover every Japanese ship, whether it carried goods or passengers, and that it should be applied to all Japanese ships, whether they were carrying goods or passengers.

He said his party agreed entirely with the attitude of Senator Borah of the United States, who has urged to the effect that America could not follow Britain in declaring an arms embargo against China and Japan.

ARMY EMBARGO SEEN AS HANDICAP TO CHINA
TOKYO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Great Britain's attitude toward the Japanese embargo against Japan and China was interpreted by Japanese authorities today as meaning a handicap for China.

This interpretation was based on the ground that so far as arms are concerned, Japan is self-sufficient. Nevertheless, keen resentment against the United States was expressed in official circles.

A government spokesman said that as long as the embargo is impartial and is confined to finished munitions, there is little likelihood of trouble, but if restrictions are applied to Japan alone the government will have to consider the question of seizing arms shipments to China.

Official and business circles, however, were uneasy; lest the embargo turn out to be only the first instance of pressure against Japan with the possibility of eventual economic sanctions. Any such action, many Japanese believe, would mean war.

seated himself. Officers watched him take the package and then arrested him.

The letter to Mr. Candler, unsigned and written in long hand on plain white paper, follows:

"Dear Candler: I need $1,000 for three months for a girl friend who is very sick. I will pay you $500 interest. Keep quiet about this. Leave the money under the last seat on the left on the back row of the West End theater. I am not bluffing. If you don't do this I will kill all the animals in the zoo to show you I am not bluffing. Keep quiet about this."

Butler was taken into custody by Postal inspectors Smith and Gweely, and City Detectives J. W. Wood, E. J. Hildebrand, Y. T. Allen and W. T. Anderson.

At the police station Butler was booked on suspicion to be held for the government.

J. F. HARTSOUGH DIES; WAS RAILWAY OFFICIAL

J. F. Hartsough, of 2304 Cottage Grove avenue, S. E., division freight agent for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, died at midnight Tuesday at a private hospital after a long illness.

He was a native of New Liberty, Ky., and had been a resident of Atlanta since 1910.

Surviving are his wife; a son, J. M. Hartsough, of Atlanta; and a nephew, H. W. Hartsough, of Cincinnati. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Fulton Tower Escape Captured by Police

County police early Wednesday morning recaptured Rogers Rudell, one of 14 prisoners who made a sensational break from the Fulton Tower February 5. He was taken in a house at 557 Simmons street and offered no resistance. Nine of the prisoners were recaptured soon after the break, and only four now remain at liberty. Rudell was awaiting trial on charges of robbery and attempted murder.

The embargo was expressed in official circles.

A government spokesman said that as long as the embargo is impartial and is confined to finished munitions, there is little likelihood of trouble, but if restrictions are applied to Japan alone the government will have to consider the question of seizing arms shipments to China.

Official and business circles, however, were uneasy; lest the embargo turn out to be only the first instance of pressure against Japan with the possibility of eventual economic sanctions. Any such action, many Japanese believe, would mean war.

LEWIS URGES AMERICA TO EVADE EMBARGO ACTION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Foster evidence the present congress would ignore executive recommendations for authority to declare an arms embargo was given in the senate today in a speech by Senator Lewis of Illinois, who warned Americans against joining Europe in banning munitions shipments to the Orient.

Citing Great Britain's invitation to the United States to join in such an embargo, the Illinois senator said America should not repeat "blunders" of the past.

The house has prevented action on a resolution authorizing the president to declare an embargo on arms, in collaboration with other nations, and a reconsideration motion has held up action on a similar proposal in the senate, which once approved it.

NATION LEFT HELPLESS. SAYS CHINA OF EMBARGO

NANKING, China, Feb. 28.—(AP) Chinese spokesmen today asserted that the P. T. embargo on arms shipments to China was a "blunder" and an increase in the power of the Japanese military aggression.

These commentators said the embargo would not help the cause of peace. It was pointed out that Japan is well equipped with arms and China is practically without them, and unless China can obtain weapons she will be helpless.

FRANCE DELAYS ACTION UNTIL U. S. INAUGURATION

PARIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The apparent intention of the United States to let the far eastern arms embargo question remain in abeyance until the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt has delayed action by France, it was said in official quarters today.

Another action in the French delay was the government's absorption in the financial bill now before the chamber. The embargo probably will be discussed at the next meeting of the council of ministers, the date for which has not been set.

OFFICIAL EXPLAINS RAIL SLASH PLAN

L. & N. Would Cut Rates and Inaugurate Pick-Up Service.

Definite steps of southern railways to meet transportation problems announced Tuesday were amplified by F. T. Alexander, division passenger agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. At the request of The Constitution he explained the workings of the new schedule of fares proposed for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. At the request of The Constitution he explained the workings of the new schedule of fares proposed for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co.

The inauguration of the new store-door pick-up and delivery of less than carload freight on March 15.

The petition of the L. & N. now before the commission would reduce the basic passenger fare on all lines of the company from the present 3.5 cents a mile to a flat 2 cents a mile for coach travel and to 3 cents per mile in sleeping and parlor cars. The new schedule also would eliminate the additional surcharge of half the Pullman fare assessed.

Mr. Alexander said the rates would not only apply between all points on the L. & N. but would apply to points on such other railroads as may become parties to the proposed reduction.

Wide Scope of Plan.

"To and from destinations on other lines which maintain the 40 per cent basis of fares," he said, "the new plan is the same measure of reduction to and from the junction points with other lines and construct through fares accordingly."

Citing actual examples of reduction to the traveling public, Mr. Alexander said the fare between Atlanta and Knoxville, Tenn., which now is $7.08, would be cut to $3.94 for a saving of $3.15 if the interstate commerce commission grants the request.

He said the application before the commission stated that the reduction was to be for six months for experimental purposes.

Examining reductions in the cost of travel between Atlanta and other points if the reduction is granted, Mr. Alexander said Pullman and parlor fares would be reduced. The present fare of $8.58 to Knoxville including Pullman would be cut to $6.00 or a reduction of $1.58.

Fare between Louisville, Ky., and Atlanta, which now is $19.28, would be reduced to $16.56. Coach fare between the two points would be reduced from $20.78 to $16.56. Coach fare between Atlanta and Cincinnati would be cut from $17.30 to $9.61 and Pullman fare between the same cities would be reduced from $22.55 to $17.92 under the proposed order.

Roads To Act Promptly.

Mr. Alexander said that in the event the commission grants the request, the lower rates would take effect as quickly as passenger tariffs could be revised—or about April 1 to 15.

Concerning the store-door pick-up and delivery of less than carload freight, Mr. Alexander referred to a recently published tariff which will be effective March 15. The service will be performed by local transfer or truck operators under contract with the railroad and will be available at nearly 500 stations in the southeast and midwest.

Under the provisions of the tariff, less than carloads of freight will be handled by the contract truck operators between points separating shipping centers and the freight depots. No charge will be made for the service on shipments moving to destinations within approximately 100 miles of the shipping point.

Shipments outside that area will be collected or delivered, or both, at the rate of 10 cents the hundred pounds in addition to the freight rate.

Other conditions and exceptions, Mr. Alexander said, will go further toward making the new service a forward step in transportation.

GEORGIANS ACCEPT PATRONAGE PLANS

Representatives Anticipate No Misunderstanding Under Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Georgia's congressional delegation does not anticipate misunderstandings on the question of patronage by the Roosevelt administration, although representative McMillan, of South Carolina, today said members from his state thought reported plans to be "damnable outrage."

McMillan quoted Claude N. Sapp, South Carolina state chairman, as having said state leaders expected a say in appointments usually reserved for members of congress. He also told of reports that appointees in his state would be expected to make campaign contributions needed to wipe out the democratic deficit.

The Georgia representatives commented on no such rumors, however, and generally said they expected federal patronage to follow custom. Not all could be reached for statements.

Representative Cox said, however, that he proposed to control "that which is commonly understood as congressional patronage with due deference to the wishes of the senators."

Representative Wood said that while lacking authoritative source concerning patronage distribution, he stood "ready to control any of such which I may be permitted to do, acting in perfect harmony with the senators from Georgia and my colleagues in the house."

Representative Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, said that in his opinion Georgia senators and congressmen would "handle the patronage due them."

Representative Tarter declined a statement until he learned the attitude of the incoming administration, while Representative Ramspeck and Castellow both said they would like more information. They added, however, that they wanted to handle all

Prisoner Escapes Pen With Only 2 Days to Go
LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Federal penitentiary officials are wondering if Joseph Holt, 43, didn't lose track of his dates.

Experts Aid Search For Henderson Slayer
County police have been aided for some time by expert criminologists in their probe of the murder of Mrs. Sam Henderson and the wounding of her husband and baby, it was learned Tuesday when a blood-stained panel, taken from the house, was turned over to state laboratories for an analysis.

The police through this means hope to unearth additional clues. It was stated that reports of the arrest of two negroes with shotguns at Union Point were investigated but that the negroes did not tally with the description of the murderer given by Henderson, who is reported to be improving at Grady hospital from gun wounds in the neck. The child also was improved Tuesday.

The blood-stained board was taken to the capital by one of the experts called in by the police, it was stated, but the names of the experts were not revealed.

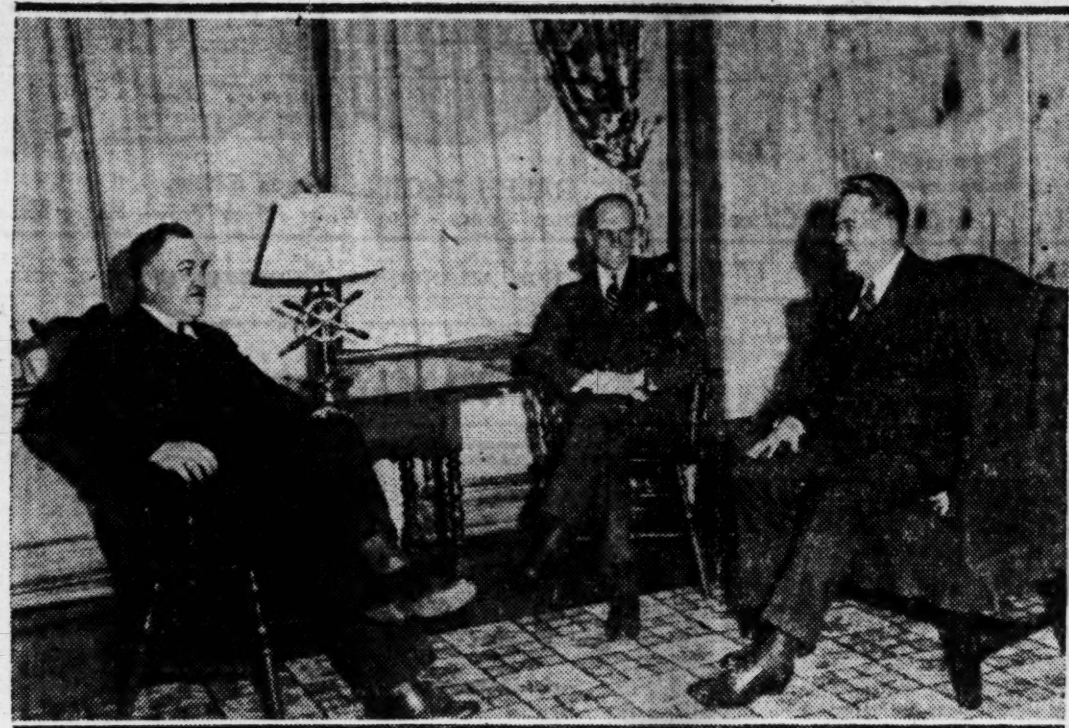

EARLY PROHIBITION AIMED AT HEALTH, PROFESSOR SAYS
Georgia's colonial prohibition law—so says Professor R. L. Sheppard—was passed to improve health and economics and not morals.

Professor Sheppard, instructor of sociology at Georgia Tech, told the Lions Club luncheon Tuesday that the colony's 18th century ban on rum was placed by General James Oglethorpe because the colonists believed rum was conducive to malaria and because rum drinking slowed industry.

The professor said his information came from authentic records. He also said records show that the colony was planned for English debtors, but that when war with Spain threatened three-fourths of the pauper English fled the state.

The Salzburgers, he said, were sent to Georgia because of their farming ability and the Scotch immigrants were sent over to fight.

Beautiful New Quarters of Lawyers' Club Formally Presented Group by C. & S. Bank

Officials and representatives of the Lawyers Club of Atlanta and the Citizens and Southern National Bank gathered in a corner of the dining room of the new club quarters formally presented by the bank Tuesday night. Left to right, Frank Carter, chairman of the house committee of the club; Elbert Tuttle, president, and Lewis F. Gordon, publicity director of the bank. The staff photo, by Kenneth Rogers, shows a portion of the rich draperies and arrangements of the dining hall.

Sumptuous in furnishing and decoration, new club quarters, said to be the largest and most elaborate of their type in the United States outside New York and Chicago, were formally presented to the Lawyers' Club of Atlanta by the Citizens and Southern National bank building Tuesday night. The presentation was made to the guarantors of the club at a dinner at which the bank was host and was witnessed by more than 100 leading members of the Atlanta bar.

Located on the fifth floor of the building, the quarters spread over two wings and are divided into dining, library and lounge rooms. Shaded lights, rich tapestries and thick floor coverings furnished an elaborate setting for simple, antique and period furnishings.

The presentation was made by H. Lane Young, executive vice president of the Citizens and Southern, and the clubrooms were received by Elbert Tuttle, president of the Lawyers' Club. The club in the future will be operated by the law group. While many members of the club were present at the formal presentation Tuesday night, the formal opening will not be held until March 10.

Republicans in House Hold Secret Meeting
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—House republicans met tonight in closed conference to organize for the new congress while the democrats continued their contest over the speakership that will be decided at a caucus Thursday.

Representative Snell, of New York, the republican leader, had no opposition for his party's speakership nomination, which meant he will be minority leader in the next democratic-controlled house.

Shortly after Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the democratic floor leader, announced he would "win the speakership nomination," campaign managers for Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, issued a formal statement claiming that 123 votes would be cast for their candidate on the first ballot. They predicted his selection.

BUSINESS GAINS NOTED IN SOUTH

Richmond Federal Reserve Reports Upturn in January, February.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Definite signs of business improvement in the fifth federal reserve district during January and early February—a period normally dull—were reported today by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond in its monthly review of credit, business and agricultural conditions.

Outstanding among the favorable signs were improvement in retail and wholesale trade. Retail trade, the bank reported, was better in January than in most recent months, and wholesale trade made the best comparative showing in more than three years.

Textile mills not only reported a seasonal increase in cotton consumption in comparison with December, but also showed materially larger consumption than in January, 1932, and for the first time on record the fifth district consumed half the cotton used in the entire country.

Tobacco prices paid growers were better in January than in January last year. Cold weather held back premature development of fruit buds, and snow and rain put soil in splendid condition for the coming planting season.

In banking, the reserve bank reported an increase in discounts held by it for member banks, together with an increase in its holding of government securities. The circulation of federal reserve notes showed an unseasonal increase between January 15 and February 15, due chiefly to a desire of some banks in the district to strengthen their cash position.

UTAH HOUSE REFUSES TO RESUBMIT REPEAL
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 28.—(UP)—The Utah state house of representatives failed today to pass a bill providing resubmission of the state liquor law to the vote of the people.

The bill failed by six votes to give the necessary two-thirds majority. The final ballot was 34 yeas and 26 nays. The bill, a senate joint resolution, was previously passed, in the upper house.

Wife of 'Gold Digger' Is Granted Divorce

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Horace S. Brown, 60, of Leamington, Ont., was termed a "male gold digger" by Judge Craig Hood today as he granted a divorce to Mrs. Mary Luettig Brown, also 60, of suburban Glencoe.

"This old man did not love the woman at all," said Judge Hood. "He married her only for her money and he could not be a real husband to her. I have no sympathy for him. He did get a lot of money but I am not going to allow him to get any more."

The divorce decree stipulated Mrs. Brown's Glencoe home, placed in joint tenancy when they were married, be returned to her.

House to Act Today On Bankruptcy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Democratic and republican leaders agreed today to bring up for house action tomorrow the bankruptcy revision measure with a view to final passage.

Action was deferred because of the absence of a larger number of house members who left the session after the vote on the Smith cotton bill.

Both republican and democratic leaders expressed the view that the senate amendments would be agreed to by the house.

VIRGIL Y. DICKEY, 57, DIES OF LONG ILLNESS

Shoe Salesman Was Widely Known; Lived in Atlanta for 30 Years.

Virgil Y. Dickey, 57, widely-known throughout Georgia, died late Tuesday night at a private hospital where he had been confined for the last six months. He resided at 945 Virginia circle, N. E., and had been in failing health for two years.

ENGLISH PILOT TO CHALLENGE SPEEDBOAT CUP

Scott-Paine Files Entry for Harmsworth Trophy Race.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(P)—Hubert Scott-Paine, English motorboat designer and builder, considered by many this country's leading speedboat driver, today took up the task of vesting supremacy on the water from Gar Wood and filed a challenge for the Harmsworth trophy for 1933.

The challenge was made to the Yachtmen's Association of America, which holds the trophy for Wood, through the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England. The race will be run at Detroit, September 2, 4, and, if necessary, 6th. Today was the last day for filing a challenge.

Scott-Paine, noted heretofore as builder of Lord Wakefield's first Miss England and a driver of smaller speedboats, revealed he had been working on a hull design for six months and said he felt sure he had a "reasonable reach" of a suitable one.

He will name his new boat Miss Britain III, and will power her with a 1,350-horsepower motor of the supercharged type used in the British Schneider cup. He has several years' experience, but said his hull would be a new and "unorthodox" design.

The challenge is the eighth filed for the international speedboat trophy since Wood won it on Osborne bay, England, in 1920, with the first of his great line of Miss England boats. Seven of those challenges have come from England, which holds the speed records in air and on land, and the other from France, Betty Carstairs, who challenged three times unsuccessfully and Lord Wakefield, with Kaye Don as his driver, made unsuccessful efforts to lift the trophy in 1931 and 1932.

When Lord Wakefield announced he was through with speedboat racing, following the breakdown of his boat in the trials last fall, it was doubted whether anyone could be found with sufficient money and enthusiasm to carry on. It is estimated that the building of a boat and equipping it with an engine costs approximately $50,000, and expenses for driver and crew add $25,000 more.

FARLEY RESIGNS FROM KING BODY

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(P)—James A. Farley, "Big Jim" to the boxing world—stepped out today with "genuine regret" as chairman of the New York state athletic commission, to assume, on March 4, the postmaster-generalship of the United States in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At the regular meeting of the commission Farley turned in his resignation, which was promptly mailed to Secretary of State Edward Frenn, effective today. At the suggestion of William Muldoon, 57-year-old commissioner, General John J. Phelan, third member of the board, was elected Farley's successor.

The newly appointed postmaster-general, who as chairman of the New York state and national democratic committees, managed the victorious campaign of Franklin D. Roosevelt, confirmed the election of D. Walker Wear, of Binghamton, N. Y., for the vacant place on the commission.

Farley's resignation was his first away from what has been his friendly battleground since 1924, when he was first appointed to the commission joining Muldoon and George Brower, the latter chairman. He became chairman in 1925.

kind of decoration for gallantry in the face of murderous fire. Waits, forward, was State's most effective man, Taylor, the center, not getting started until he had been hit.

The crowd which watched the final, while not as ample as that of Saturday night, was fairly good and insured the success of the tournament. The game was a close one, with the Bluegrass Juggermen, led by the Bluegrass Juggermen, but the Mississippi team, with its four sophomores, should figure somewhere in the invited eight for next year's tournament. The boys acquitted themselves nobly, if not phenomally.

Tech Net Team

Georgia Tech's tennis team will make its first trip of the season April 14 and 15, it was learned Tuesday. The jackets will play Alabama and Tulane, with a possibility of the trip including Florida and a tournament slated for New Orleans about that time.

Another trip to include matches with Princeton, Columbia and another eastern school and the national intercollegiate tournament is being arranged.

Miss Justice Boosts Interest in Bowling

Pretty Young Durham Girl Shows You How To Bowl at Blick's Alleys.

By Jack Troy.

The newest addition to Blick's bowling center family has brought the same kind of brightness that the return of prosperity would give to the forgotten man.

By way of introduction, Miss Ruth Justice, of Durham, N. C., an instructor at Blick's bowling center, is five feet tall, with sparkling brown eyes and blond curly hair.

Miss Justice has been here two weeks and is a decided favorite with the women bowlers. State champion of North Carolina in 1931, Miss Justice has an average of better than 100.

And with a flash of poetry, even teeth Miss Justice explained yesterday that her average has shown a decided increase since she has been here. Someone suggested that maybe that was because the climate here (with all those ultra-violet rays) has had something to do with it.

And then it was that Miss Justice rallied to the support of her native Durham in a manner that would have done justice to a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Won't somebody," she asked appealingly, her large brown eyes searching the assembled auditors, "won't somebody say something good for Durham?"

BOOSTERS ALL. And everybody was happy to say something good for Durham because, by gosh, Miss Ruth Justice's big brown eyes just sort of supersede all the ultra violet rays you ever heard of. A 100 bowled at Durham is Miss Justice's highest individual duckpin game mark. It is higher, in identity, than any of the feminine pin-scattering efforts in this vicinity.

At the present time Miss Justice is concentrating her efforts in the organization of women's bowling leagues throughout the city, Sunday school and church.

FOR BEGINNERS. The commercial league is planned to include beginners primarily. Feminine bowlers are assured first-class instruction from the start, for Miss Justice is an expert bowler.

Miss Ruth Justice is a permanent addition to the Blick bowling center family, and interest among the ladies and girl bowlers is expected to show a splendid increase.

Women bowlers, one and all, are assured justice tempered with mercy, as one writer has put it.

And so step up, ladies, and get weighed on the bowling scales of a new kind of Justice.

PHELPS MAY GET ATLANTA TRIAL

you will be disappointed in his fielding, unless he has improved greatly," Bert Nichols, Chattanooga manager, told the writer when it was announced that Phelps was coming here. Robinson and Charley Moore, after perusing the Central league records, told Phelps' fielding average picked up considerably last year while he was engaged in socking 29 home runs in that circuit.

It is in no way to be compared to the Southern and chances are the Crackers may have to bring in another first baseman to protect that position. "I am sure that Phelps will make a good Class B man, but if he hasn't enough fielding polish, we want to be in position to get someone else for the position," Uncle Rube stated.

This is the only position whereby drastic experimenting will be seen on the Cracker club, unless it is decided to make a third baseman or a catcher out of young Rudy Laskowski, and merely play him by the way, Laskowski, a shortstop with Knoxville last year, may find himself being tried both on the hot corner and back of the platter at Mobile.

Manager Charley Moore, who is a right clever hand at developing catchers, is going to apply the rookie rule to young Ralph Butler, the rookie catcher, who was with the Crackers last year. A sore arm resulted in Butler being sent home to Philadelphia about mid-season, where he played in the Twilight league for the rest of the summer. The young catcher, who was bought by the Crackers from the Pine Bluff club of the Cotton States league last year, is exceedingly fast and a rather nifty handler of the mit. He has always been a good hitter, and if the throwing arm is all right, may step into the Class B receiver's berth without any trouble.

BREAK of the DAY

may be nominated for the 1934 basketball tournament, there will be some uneasy squirming.

Because the ghost of the 1933 Mississippi State team, like Banquo's ghost in the banquet scene, will keep intruding itself. And if the committee does not feel uneasy it will be a strange committee.

Because if the teams of this tournament had been selected on the season's record the Mississippi State team would not be here at all. And yet they were in the finals.

THE OLD ACID TEST. A few coaches, a very few, do not like the basketball tournament because, they say, it is not a fair test. I am forced to disagree with this because it seems to me that the tournament is the finest test that could be arranged.

The season's schedule, arranged so that a team rarely goes out of its section, is never a real indication of what a team can do. No two basketball courts in the south are the same size. Many teams win their home games on small floors to which they have adapted their play. Others have floors that are too large.

The tournament brings them all together on a standard floor and under the same playing conditions. There is the same officiating. (And this year is the best officiating the tournament has had in 12 years.) The strain, which is often mentioned, is negligible. In fact it doesn't exist. The tournament is a real playing test.

Georgian Declares Purpose

But Acreage Cut

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Speaking for the cotton growers of the south, Representative Eugene Cox, of Georgia, today urged the house to adopt the special rule which opened the way for the Smith cotton bill, passed by the senate last week, to be disposed of by the lower chamber.

By their action the aldermen went on record as favoring the idea of the city going into the business of power in competition with the Georgia Power Company.

After adoption of the report, which was released for publication a week ago, Mayor Glen Toole appointed the members of the committee that drafted the report as a committee to conduct negotiations with various interests.

Alderman Herbert I. Smart in offering the committee report declared that his committee had done as far as it could under the authority granted by council.

CHARTER RENEWAL

SPARTA, Ga., Feb. 28.—Application will be made to the superior court for renewal of charter of the Sparta Agricultural and Industrial Institute, for colored youths, which has been in operation 21 years.

The school has a few acres of land and a plant valued at $30,000. The school has been planned and gradually built up by Leonard Stephens Ingraham, a former slave, and his wife, Anna S. Ingraham.

Although advanced in years, Professor Ingraham still heads the school. He plans to leave the school as a memorial and hopes to have it endowed so that it can operate indefinitely for the benefit of his race after he has passed on.

All of the trustees of the school are white citizens. The institution is under the control of the county board of education, although the property is owned by the school.

Harmony, Spirit Feature Concert
By 200 Bass Junior High Singers

Two hundred boys—students of Bass Junior High school—gave those skeptics who so often describe the modern boy as being uninterested in good music the greatest surprise of their lives when they presented a highly artistic and tasteful program, Tuesday night in their school auditorium, under the efficient leadership of their musical director, Miss Mabel Stewart.

Stewart's remarkable results she has produced with this group of peppy, enthusiastic youths. The clear, young voices blended together in lovely harmony. Their phrasing was fine throughout, and their interpretative effects followed to the letter their leader's thought and musically.

And what was more important, those boyish young hearts were in their singing. For Miss Stewart has sold them the love for fine music.

Numbers deserving special commendation in a well chosen program were "That Wonderful Mother of Mine," Goodwin; a negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," "Brother Boy," Stuart-Zamenick; and "Soldiers' Chorus," from Gounod's "Faust."

Featured guest artists were Richard Holtzman, baritone, giving a stirring rendition of the "Toreador's Song," from Bizet's "Carmen," and Miss Claire Harp, violinist, playing Schubert's "Ave Maria" and De Falla's "Ritual Fire Dance" with outstanding artistry.

Henry Helms Jr., Bass student, played a group of saxophone solos, and the "Low, Glee Club" sang a group on the program, with Bill Burnham doing a special dance.

Mrs. Charles Chalmers provided all the accompaniments for the program in her usual inimitable way.

Fort Benning Sergeants Retire After 30 Years' Service in Army

Two "oldtimers" of the army—Master Sergeant George A. Richards and First Sergeant James P. Johnston—having completed 30 or the equivalent years of service, were retired to private life today.

Sergeant Richards, of the Infantry school here, has served in the field artillery and tanks on home and foreign soil. He enlisted in 1902 and was promoted to sergeant in 1910. He is a high efficiency rating. He will make his future home in Baltimore.

Sergeant Johnston said he was on duty Sunday night when he heard pistol shots. Investigating, he saw Jones standing alongside a tree, he said, with a pistol in his hand.

By their action the aldermen went on record as favoring the idea of the city going into the business of power in competition with the Georgia Power Company.

NOTORIOUS LIFER FLEES FROM GANG

Sims Scarborough Object of Wide Search After Leaving Cherokee Camp

CANTON, Ga., Feb. 28.—(P)—Sims Scarborough, serving a life sentence for participation in one of Georgia's most spectacular murders, has escaped from the Cherokee county chain gang and was the object of a widespread search today.

Scarborough drove off in a truck bearing food for prisoners working outside the camp yesterday noon, Guard W. E. Green said today in confirming the escape, and has not been located since.

A truck similar to the missing one was reported at Roswell, and deputies concentrated search in that section of the state.

Scarborough and two other men, Floyd McClellan and Ted Coggeshall, were convicted of the murder of W. C. Wright, superintendent of schools in Putnam county in 1924. McClellan and Coggeshall were electrocuted after a prolonged court fight, but the jury convicting Scarborough recommended mercy because he turned state's evidence against the other two.

Professor Wright was slain after he picked up two hitchhikers making their way from Florida to Illinois. Scarborough testified he had been traveling with the two, but left them when they planned a highway robbery.

TEACHERS ARE URGED TO DEFEND SYSTEM

Attempt to Cripple American Schools Charged by Association.

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A commission which declared the professional had been "meek long enough" urged American educators today to go on the warpath against those who "would make children the victims of the depression."

A fighting campaign for public support in ferreting out the attackers, directed by a commission already set up, was advocated in a report presented to the department of superintendence, National Education Association.

So serious did the executive boards of the department and the association, parent body, deem the crisis caused by fund reduction that they ordered continued indefinitely the joint emergency commission which made the report. That group, of which John K. Norton, of Columbia University, is chairman, was created in January.

At the same time the lay committee of the department, functioning as a liaison agency between the profession and the public—charged in a report today the appearance to be an organized attempt "by those who control great wealth to cripple the public school system of America."

The lay unit, with Superintendent Charles S. Meek, of Toledo, Ohio, as chairman, likewise appealed for public support of educators seeking to maintain high standards.

The little girl who wouldn't

EAT

When a youngster has no appetite, it's probably due to stasis. A little syrup of figs will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat.

Nature knows best! Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Not to correct this is inexcusable. It is so easy to do, if you will only use the "California treatment." Read what it is doing for listless children in every part of the country!

When appetite fails, tongue is coated, white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children any constipating cathartic that drains the system and weakens twenty feet of tender bowels! California syrup of figs is the only "medicine" they need!

Sluggishness ended in 2 Weeks!

That girl or boy with a furry tongue and a bad breath should not be teased with salts! California syrup of figs will gently stimulate the digestive muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food, digest it, gain weight.

Try the California treatment! Begin tonight, with enough of the pure syrup of figs to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Give less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week until the child's appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone.

Be sure to get the real California syrup of figs. Any druggist has it, all bottled, with directions. It's a natural, vegetable laxative. Just as good for babes of two years as boys of ten. They all love its taste!

NOTICE TO MOTHERS
There are imitations of California Syrup of Figs and those who would sell you some substitute even when a child's health is concerned. Don't ever take any bottle that is not plainly labeled CALIFORNIA.

INSTALLMENT II.

"Well, it takes two to sail a catboat."

"Yeah? And the same to make a quarrel."

Again her dimple, and with a flash of white teeth. This gypsy had a temper, the quick thought came.

"Men don't quarrel," she said.

"Oh! Where'd you get that news?"

"Men are too big and noble and generous to quarrel. They fight the great, stern battles of life and leave the petty squabbles to poor, weak women." The hint of mischief in a corner of her aquamarine eyes!

"Whoopie! You are giving me a ride!"

"Maybe you'd better put the newspaper on your head again. You might get a sunstroke."

Her paddle brushed the water gently, and she had a panicky fear that she had decided to go. Now, roughly in a hope of holding her, he asked, "Don't you find things rather quiet here in the winter?"

"Sort of." She had a way of saying "sort of," not like that of other girls. With a slight drawing of the lower lip, not quite a lip, but very naive. Curious mixture she was of growing child and a wise young woman. "Well, I wish I could be of some help to you," she said, after an unexpected shyness had silenced them both.

Looking on her slenderness she smiled and said, "You might pull me out of this." Her giggle seemed to delight her, as a bird enjoys its own song.

"I mean practical help," she said. "I'd feel better if somebody'd just talk to me." She was charming like the day; like the water her face was sensitive to shade and shine.

"What shall we talk about?" asked the girl, as though she were a committee of one sent by the tide-born Proteus to make his sea entertaining during a tedious wait.

"Let's talk about fish," Bart suggested.

"I see your friend coming back in the rowboat. He'll get here after a while." A true waterman, she was criticizing Ingy's style. She pushed her paddle against the catboat.

"Good-by, Ben," Bart sang out.

"Good-by." The boy waved a freckled hand.

The girl turned the ghost of a smile over her shoulder. I like you, I think, her look seemed to say.

Bart clung to the angled mast, watching the red canoe skim away, half wild water creature, half girl. What a charming adventure, destined to disappear into the nowhere whence it came. Her name was Alice, Alice what? She hadn't taken the trouble to ask who he was. She had come to him like a laughing strain of some water song, to be remembered but never heard again.

Distantly he saw the rowboat and canoe slow up and pause a couple of yards apart. Two voices over the water, all and last. They didn't talk long; a young vanity tickled Bart with the assurance that this surprising Alice hadn't found Ingy Warren worth her while. Then Ingy labored on.

"That hick town's leader than Carthage," he panted. "But I shouldn't wonder if Port England had a pretty good stopping off place, if you know what I mean. Who's your friend in red?"

Bart hesitated, knowing about Ingy and trouble.

"Just a girl. I'm not the census taker."

"No name or address?"

"Shouldn't wonder. I didn't ask."

"No? Well, that's good technique, old thing. Play the lone wolf. But me, I ask questions and learn things."

With a wise look toward the spot where the red canoe had vanished.

"I suppose you've been so busy with your bright ideas that you didn't have time to look up a carpenter."

"O, yes I did. He's a worthy person named Abner, or Abel, or Abalone—what names have you? They're coming out in a launch. And if you're willing to rot here till the rudder's mended, let Abner or Abel help you home with this blasted little tub. I'm through. I've hired a jittney to take me back to Wyattville."

"Well, well," droned Bart.

"I've got a broken back and his- ters on my hands that may scar me for life. Anyway, there's a dance on at Wyattville tonight. And the next time I come here, if ever, it will be in my own yacht with a captain to do the thinking for me."

"I'll miss you," said Bart.

gested, pointing down to the little brown devils playing among the water reeds.

She was serious as a child in this nonsense he had proposed. With one hand against the catboat she steadied her canoe, then leaped over the prow, her head as close to the water as she could get it; her dark hair, falling forward over her face, was very soft and inclined to curl.

"With a curious intensity she cried: 'Baby, mackerel! You darlings! You're in a great bamboo jungle, playing that you're afraid. You love to be afraid. Look!'"

Then amazingly her free hand plunged into the water and came up with a tiny, silvery fish, turning and flopping in her palm. The brown hand was beautiful, the fish like a captive butterfly. A moment and she cast it back.

"How do you do it?" he asked.

"O, I always could—sort of." Again she leaned to the water. "See all the wiggly hairs down there. They're young eels."

"They've come a long distance to Port England."

"All the way from the Sargasso sea. Tell that to a Port England fisherman and he'll snub you half to death."

"You know a great many?"

"Eel fishermen? I was raised by one. Then she paid attention to the boy, who had crawled from the canoe to the catboat and back again. "Aw, come on!" he was worrying her. "He's there half an hour ago with the bait all everything."

"I think you're better go." Alice was smiling up at Bart.

"And leave me alone with the fishes?"

"I see your friend coming back in the rowboat. He'll get here after a while." A true waterman, she was criticizing Ingy's style. She pushed her paddle against the catboat.

"I'll miss you," said Bart.

With nothing in the world to do, Bart went out to the end of the wharf and lay down on the float; it was sinking into a fuzzy daze when a chuckle of water and a gentle tremor running along the platform caused him to sit up sleepily, then jump wide- awake for the red canoe lay against the float; a small brown hand was close to his.

"You certainly do rest in the fun- niest places," laughed the girl in the red bathing suit.

He got on his knees, helped steady the canoe, and in that ridiculous pose faced her merrily, eye to eye.

"What did you do with Brother Ben?"

"Oh, he wanted to fish, and I didn't want to—sort of. Then, with a look that was bright with fleeting hope, "Is Mr. Davis going to be long fixing your boat?"

"Forever," he said, excited by an idea. "What shall we do in the meantime?"

Her strange, beautiful eyes slanted toward him. She was making up her mind about something. . . . There was sudden rebellion in her look, bright mischief and a flash of temper. "I don't care. Mother's perfectly ridiculous sometimes. I know it's hor- rid of me."

"To invite me over to Folly Island?"

For so big a man Bart was light on his feet. It was one movement, his leaping into the canoe and taking up a spare paddle. But still she hesitated.

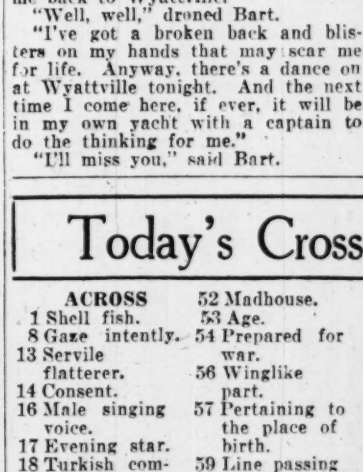

"Isn't this a special case?" she asked, worried.

"You bet it is. In case of shipwreck the law of hospitality are reversed."

Atlanta Alumni Honor Kirkland, Vandy's Chancellor for 40 Years

Dr. James H. Kirkland, chancellor of Vanderbilt University for 40 years, was honored Tuesday night by Vanderbilt alumni of Atlanta at a dinner held at the Capital City Club. Dr. and Mrs. Kirkland were the guests of honor, and were greeted by about 50 alumni of the university. A beautiful silver cup, suitably engraved in recognition of Dr. Kirkland's forty anniversary was presented to him by Rembert Marshall, who presided.

Dr. Kirkland, in his address, told not only of the growth of Vanderbilt University but of the growth of southern education and of the work done by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, an association organized by Dr. Kirkland about 20 years ago. Chancellor Kirkland recalled, during his discussion of Vanderbilt's early days, the panic of 1863. Its close resemblance to the present depression caused considerable comment.

"I recall," he said, "that all the banks at Nashville closed. The only cash I saw for several weeks was a money order for $50 which a student mailed in. We used that money to pay our salaries. We could not pay our teachers in September. Our only cash was that which a few students gave instead of checks."

"When we did begin to draw money from the banks we were permitted to draw only small amounts. My recollection is that it required three or four years before there was any real recovery from that depression. But the banks emerged from it stronger than they were before."

Dr. Kirkland went to Vanderbilt in 1885 from Germany where he had been studying in the universities there for three years.

The alumni elected Dr. Thomas Conner to succeed Rembert Marshall, who was president during the last year. Mrs. G. Aubrey Fisher was elected secretary, filling the position formerly held by Dr. Conner. Chancellor Kirkland was in Atlanta attending the meeting of the presidents of the 13 colleges forming the new Southeastern conference. In an interview here Tuesday he asserted that "deflation in the common schools of the United States is a dangerous procedure and that if reductions are brought about they should be made in the schools of higher education."

"The primary schools," he said, "are the fundamental obligation of the government in education and must not be seriously handicapped."

'Moral' Bedtime Stories Opposed by Educator

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Bedtime stories with a moral attached must be scrapped.

Paul C. Stetson, superintendent of Minneapolis schools, said today at the National Education Association convention, that the schools of 1933 cannot train their youth to meet the social and ethical problems of a cynical world by telling them bedtime stories.

The present bankruptcy of morals is evidence that attempts to instill moral character into previous generations by reciting rules of conduct have failed," he declared. "The experiences of others seldom impress us."

"We should drive home the ethical truths through direct and real experiences in the schools," he said. "The experiences of others seldom impress us."
